Societies around the Baltic Sea, North Sea and Mediterranean Sea face serious maritime problems due to increasing vessel traffic. Especially maritime transport (e.g. transport of oil & chemicals), increasing activities in the 350 nautical mile wide exclusive economic zone (e.g. fishing, oil drilling, wind mills & pipeline laying) and illegal activities (e.g. smuggling, illegal immigration and presence of terrorists) are causes. These before mentioned examples are labelled as maritime safety and security problems. Societies have the need and higher demand to preserve safety and security and to quickly respond to possible incidents. In Europe those incidents often affect multiple countries and societies. Therefore international co-operation is essential in order resolve these problems. Agencies involved are: coastguard, customs, maritime police, border police or immigration office, fishery inspectorate, Ministry of Infrastructure and the Ministry of the Environment. Currently information and even invaluable intelligence from various third party sources is potentially available. The FedSS project (www.itea2.org/project/index/view?project=10119) aims at accessing and incorporating this tremendous amount of structured and unstructured data into security management systems. A security management system consists of components such as information & intelligence gathering, analysis and tailored visualisation to the user. A typical example is the enrichment of the security surveillance picture with information displayed in stacked overlays. A security surveillance picture provides awareness of the organization's area of responsibility and consists of maps, sensor data, time and information overlays. FedSS does not focus on sensor data fusion, instead it is focussed on rich information fusion. Rich information is not only text but also multimedia like audio, video and imagery. Furthermore, FedSS intends to enable effective international and inter-agency co-operation by taking into account national security, organizational and privacy regulations.

Description

As an ideal candidate for this position, you hold (or will finish very soon) a recent PhD in computer network security or a closely related discipline (mandatory); have a proven research record documented by excellent publications in the field; have participated in cooperative research projects at national or international level; have excellent communication skills, mastering both oral and written English fluently; are able to pursue challenging, interdisciplinary research problems and deliver proof-of-concept results; have strong practical security skills, including C, C++, embedded systems, intrusion, and IT forensics; and have good management and team leading skills. If you think you fulfill at least a good number of these characteristics, we strongly encourage you to apply.

For more information please contact Dr. Damiano Bolzoni (damiano.bolzoni@utwente.nl). Applications have to be submitted via the central job portal of the University of Twente at www.utwente.nl/vacatures/en/. Please ensure that your application includes at least:

Human Resources Excellence in Research

EURAXESS Rights aims at better employment and working conditions for researchers throughout Europe, thereby helping to enhance the attractiveness of European research careers. One of the cornerstones of EURAXESS Rights is the implementation of the European Charter for Researchers and the Code of Conduct for the Recruitment of Researchers. The Human Resources Strategy for Researchers supports the implementation of the "Charter & Code" principles and provides for the award of the 'HR Excellence in Research' logo.
